Second Sunday of Easter

Divine Mercy Sunday

There are many names for today's celebration. In Rome it was called Dominica in Albis ("Sunday in Albs"), because it was on this day that the neophytes removed the white garments they had received at their Baptism at the Easter Vigil and put on their necks an Agnus Dei, made of white wax, and blessed by the Pope, to remind them of the innocence they received in Baptism and also of the meekness of Christ, the Lamb of God. It is the Sunday within the octave of Easter, the Second Sunday of Easter, and, since the year 2000, Divine Mercy Sunday. The liturgy completes the accounts of the appearances of the risen Lord which we have heard throughout the octave, and it also continues to emphasize Baptism, the foundational sacrament.

Divine Mercy Sunday was established by Pope John Paul II. This day recognizes the abundant mercy of God offered to us through Christ. With great faith and joy, John Paul II understood the Resurrection as a "miracle of mercy," which "radically changed humanity's destiny" (Homily of John Paul II on the Second Sunday of Easter, Divine Mercy Sunday, 2001).

LECTIONARY

FIRST READING: Today's reading from Acts gives us a vision of the early Church, a community filled with the risen Christ. These first Christians are of "one heart and mind" (Acts 4:32), and they share everything in common, claiming nothing for themselves. The apostles (who, before the Resurrection, were often found arguing among themselves about who was the greatest) now preach the Resurrection with "great power" and "great favor" (4:33), and the results are marvelous: "there was no needy person among them" (4:34). The reading gives us a glimpse of what happens when a Christian community is totally open to the presence of the Risen Lord.

RESPONSORIAL PSALM: We sing the same psalm today that we sang on Easter Sunday: "this is the day the Lord has made;/let us be glad and rejoice in it!" (118:24).

SECOND READING: Our Second Reading is from the first letter of St. John. The three letters attributed to John could hardly be more different from Paul's letters. They might be described as "love letters," for they are imbued with a sense of God's love for us in Jesus Christ. In the first few lines of today's reading, the word love appears five times. For John, everything starts with faith in Jesus Christ. If we believe in him, we are "begotten by God" (1 John 5:1); if we love God, we keep his commandments; and if we keep his commandments, we "conquer the world" (5:4) with Jesus Christ, for he came "through water and blood" (5:6). Again, contemplation of the Resurrection of the Lord leads us to the sacramental life of the Church, where the risen Lord is present and active among his people.

Women and Heart Disease

Heart disease is the leading cause of death for all women in NJ and our country. In fact, more women than men die of heart disease. The good news is that 80% of heart disease can be prevented if women know their risks and take steps to reduce these risks.

The Wellness Ministry and the St. Thomas Home and School Assoc. invite all women, but especially pre-menopausal women in their 30's, 40's and 50's to attend.

Women and Heart Disease presented by St. Joseph's Women's Heart Center April 23, 2009 at 7:30 p.m. at STA School in Herron Hall

Right to Life

For all who are tempted to sin against life, that they might turn from darkness and embrace the infinite love and light of God;

We pray to the Lord

From early times, the egg was for many people a symbol of re-birth. The exchange of eggs was a springtime custom in some cultures. The eggs that were given to others were sometimes wrapped in gold leaf or were colored by boiling them with leaves or flower petals.

Allegedly St. Augustine was the first Christian who associated the egg with Easter. He compared the egg with the virtue of hope because the egg, like hope, has not yet come to fruition.
